The Licensor has the right not to grant a licence in respect of the Registered Trade Mark in circumstances where it is considered by the Licensor not to be appropriate. Refusal to grant a licence in respect of the Registered Trade Mark is at the sole discretion of the Licensor and grant of a licence may be refused even if the individual fulfils the eligibility criteria set out above.

Should the individual cease to be active in the business, through resignation, termination by other means, illness, death, or other circumstances which mean the individual can no longer take an active role in the business, the Licensor may terminate the licence in respect of the Registered Trade Mark.

The Licensor may amend these Licence Conditions from time to time at its discretion and will notify individuals of any such amendments as they occur.
